

REGISTRATION FOR DUBLIN COASTAL BIOBLITZ

2025 IS NOW OPEN!

Please register here: BioBlitz Dublin

Date: Saturday, 23rd August

Meeting point: Irish National Sailing School

Time: We have three two hour sessions throughout the day, select a session that suits you (starting 12 pm, 2 pm, or 4 pm).

What to expect:

- * A captivating talk on marine biodiversity, highlighting the importance of preserving our coastal ecosystems.

- * Guided exploration along the seashore to identify and record marine plants, animals, and invertebrates.

- * Learn how to use simple tools and apps for species documentation.

- * Whether you're a seasoned naturalist or just curious about life beneath the waves, come be a part of this unique citizen science adventure! Your observations will help scientists monitor and protect marine life for future generations.

Don't miss out on this chance to connect with nature and contribute to marine conservation. See you on the shore!

Event supported by University College Dublin, Dún Laoghaire Rathdown County Council, National Biodiversity Data Centre, IOPAN, and organised as part of the National Heritage Week
